

Rain Barrels Now Available at the Louisville Nature Center

Rain barrels are a great way to store water for later use during droughts or low water periods. They conserve water which can be used for lawns, gardens and watering indoor plants.

The Louisville Nature Center is distributing the barrels to raise funds for our great non-profit organization. The profits will go toward funding education programs at the Nature Center. The barrels come assembled with an overflow opening, a spigot at the bottom to attach a garden hose and a cap for the downspout. Installation instructions are included with your purchase. Cost is $74 per barrel or $69 per barrel for purchases of two or more.

The Nature Center is open Monday through Saturday from 9am to 4pm. You can stop by and inquire about the program or call 458-1328 to prepay and reserve your barrel for pickup.

While at the Nature Center, take a few minutes to view the rain garden. The rain garden was installed by MSD and Dropseed Nursery and provides some beautiful examples of native plants suitable for sunny locations. Rain Gardens are a great way to help manage storm runoff and conserve water.
